

Abstract

In a shaving implement including a shaving head having a cap portion, a shaving composite having a preventive incorporated therein is mounted to the shaving implement. During shaving, at least a portion of the preventive is transferred from the shaving composite to the skin. Preferably, preventive is a photoprotective agent for protecting the skin from ultraviolet radiation.